Kerry Anne NELSON

About Kerry Anne...

Kerry Anne Nelson is defined by the passion that fuels her daily. Graduating university with honours, Kerry Anne has worked as an educator in classrooms, and regional program development, across primary, secondary, tertiary and special education settings. For twenty years Kerry Anne has also run her own service and retail businesses. With her husband, she worked on various online platforms to end up building Australia's largest online vacuum parts store.

But Kerry Anne has also experienced some of the most traumatic events imaginable, traversing the rough terrain of divorce and remarriage, facing financial ruin in her family business, and overcoming several dark seasons of depression and anxiety. Rolling supplier debt chased Kerry Anne's online vacuum parts business for about a decade. Website improvements ended up generating hundreds and hundreds of weekly sales, but still, Kerry Anne and her husband couldn't find a way to square up old invoices. The bills kept growing with the sales. Eventually, the debt was crushing, and the stress was too much for Kerry Anne's husband. The turning point of her life came on 28 May 2014, when Kerry Anne returned home from work to find her husband lying face down on her kitchen floor, dead. The next day, grief stricken and with bankruptcy looming, she got to work, combining her professional skills with her natural strengths to turn this crisis into opportunity.

Kerry Anne streamlined her daily workplace processes, restructured her business systems, decentralised and outsourced all core operations, and cleared a decade's worth of supplier debt in only seven months. But Kerry Anne did not stop there, she continued to build and refine systems making the family business so smoothly functional that it became irresistible to buyers. On December 1, 2015, Kerry Anne ended up selling that business for a profit equal to the ten year's worth of debt she had inherited. In one and a half years Kerry Anne had made everything new. This crash course in life allows Kerry Anne to speak with authority on the essence needed to transform any business challenge life may throw at you. Losing her husband shocked Kerry Anne into the realisation that she was the only one with the power to change her situation. Kerry Anne's journey proves that your daily business processes can be transformed into operations which create new outcomes and you don't need to be facing a crisis to do it.

If you are looking for an inspiring speaker who will engage your audience with a captivating story, as well as show them the ropes of exponential business growth, Kerry Anne Nelson is the presenter you are looking for. Kerry Anne's greatest strength is her ability to transform passion into daily actions which can redefine the landscape of any business. She shows us that anything is possible for rising business builders when they know how to create taylor-made growth systems.

"Not only is Kerry Anne an inspiring and engaging public speaker, I have also been very impressed by her ability to implement efficient systems, structures and processes to run very successful events and help others in their businesses"
